REPORT

GTU Started a Lecture Series “Bharat – Tirth” for spreading awareness regarding IKS – Indian Knowledge System.

Dharohar – GTU Center for Indian Knowledge System has started a monthly lecture series on Indian Knowledge System. The first lecture was delivered on 14th June 22 by Dr. Bhujang Bobade who is the head of Knowledge Resource Center, Research for Resurgence Foundation, Nagpur. Bobade is a renowned scholar and museologist who said that we have to now proclaim our claim on our own traditional ancient knowledge system which was quite impactful but remained dormant because of invasions and the British imposition of their own modern education system in India. It is high time now to explore our own system. Thousands of years ago our architects built such temples that no architect today can build such marvellous and miraculous structures.

The Dharohar section head Dr. Shruti Anerao told that orientalist had some sinister plans to destroy the ancient culture and so Max Muller started translating Sanskrit texts. Uprooting whatever Indian was the aim of British paramountcy. It is high time to enlighten the young generation about our great heritage.

Dr. K. N. Kher, the Registrar of GTU said that we should now put more emphasis on true Knowledge rather than information. Our education should be more about critical thinking and enhancing understanding and less based on memorizing facts.

GTU staff, invited guests and students attended this lecture were impressed by the deliberations on the topic.
